

Baggage Carousel

by Noah Caldwell-Gervais

Ten years from now, when I'm still in love with you
You'll step off a plane, and I'll be waiting at the baggage carousel I'll be smiling at you, you'll be beaming at me, old friends, always
And I'll carry your bags, your guitar case, new stickers this year
After we put them in the trunk, we'll talk about our lives
Your new song, my new story, did I ever get a chance to see you play
Your first concert, two hundred appreciative listeners, applauding
I'm afraid I didn't, but I have the CD, I've heard you're better live
I wonder how things are now you're engaged, he's such a nice guy
There for you, supportive of you, I hear he's very kind, it's healthy Whatever happened to Linda, oh well, you know how things turn out Sometimes your heart just doesn't burn brilliant orange fire for someone
But we both know that sometimes it does.
